FREE and OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Agatha Anne Bunanta, photographer and judge for the 2019 Wilmington International Exhibition of Photography, presents her program “An Indonesian Perspective: Through My Eyes” on Monday, February 25 at 7:30 pm in Cokesbury Village’s Auditorium C.

Agatha lives in Indonesia. She says that Indonesia can be seen, experienced and enjoyed through many angles. The richness of the culture which encompasses the cultures of 300 ethnic groups that number 250 million people living in a 3200 by 1300 mile area will speak for themselves. Indonesia is a growing country with a complex cultural mixture, original indigenous customs and foreign influences blended together.

During her presentation, Agatha will share some of her images which represent the diversity of cultures across Indonesia. She says her images are just a representation of a big Indonesia through her small eyes. To learn more about Agatha Anne Bunanta, HonCNPS, HonSSS, APSA, GMPA, SPSA, EFIAP/p, ARPS, GPU-Cr4,
